PLANS OF MACHINISTS

Elaborate Scheme of a Co-Operative System of Work.

Contemplates the Formation of Stock Companies Managed by the Operatives.

John Peele and other members of the machinists' union have conceived and elaborated a plan of co-operation which is published by the local lodge of machinists. In a note the purpose is stated thus: "It is believed by many belonging to organized labor that something more permanent and effective must be adopted and put to practical use before the producer can absorb and enjoy the full benefit of his own labor. We therefore invite all who may chance to read our first effort along this line to give it earnest and careful consideration."

It is proposed to organize a series of companies to be known as A, B, C, D, E, etc., until the machinery producers of the State are enabled to control their own business, receive the profits on their labor, regulate the hours of labor to meet the necessities of the country, establish a thorough apprenticeship system, and keep the business in a healthy and thrifty condition by keeping capital invested in the business that under the present condition is drifting from

The printed model of the articles of association propose a company to be denoted. "A" and provides that the object of the company is to engage in the manufacture of such machinery and in such place as may be determined by a two-thirds majority vote of the subscribers of common stock, who have paid $1.50 to cover cost of incorporation, and who have, by such subscription of common stock, agreed to comply with these proposed articles of association and by-laws, with such additions or changes as may be made by a two-thirds majority vote of such subscribers of stock at time of organization.

The capital stock is to be $1,200 for each machinist, molder, blacksmith, boiler maker, pattern maker, carpenter or other me chanic, salesman, book-keeper and general manager, whose services are continually needed in the company. The capital stock to be represented by shares of common stock, the face value of which is to be $1,000 per share and held and voted by the operators of the concern, and paid up at the rate of 20 per cent, out of their earnings in the employ of the company. Each operator is to hold one share of stock valued at $1,000, and is entitled to but one vote in the management of the company. The $200 per capita, of stockholders over the $1,000, is to be held by the company or sold to apprenti es, helpers or ordinary laboring men in the employ of the company as the company may from time to time determine.

To meet the needs of the company until its common stock is paid up, it is to issue and place upon the market twelve hundred dollars of preferred stock for each subscriber of common stock. The preferred stock of the company is to be divided into shares of one dollar each. Each certificate of preferred stock is not to represent less than ten shares or more than one hundred shares. For less than ten shares the secretary shall issue due-bills on blanks prepared for the purpose. The preferred stock of this company is to be receivable at the office of the company at its face value and any declared unpaid dividend thereon to the amount of 25 per cent., in payment for any article the company may have for sale or for repair work. All unredeemed preferred stock of the company becomes lue and payable in lawful money in five years from date of its issue.

The company may issue a second or more series of preferred stock, but at no time is the amount outstanding to exceed the original amount, unless the capital stock shall be regularly increased. The preferred stock is to receive a preferred dividend of 2 per cent, over paid-up value of the common stock. The company reserves the right on six months' notice to reduce the preferred dividend or declare it all off, or fix a definite annual income on same, but by so doing the preferred stock becomes due and payable on demand in lawful money at the time such reduction of preferred dividend takes effect, and they shall give notice of such reduction or change in three daily newspapers of the State.

The basis of wages or salaries of the members to be fixed by those paid for like positions in other concerns in same line of

The officers of the company are to consist of a president, who shall act as general manager of the affairs of the company, a vice president, a secretary, a treasurer and a board of managers consisting of the head man of each department. The president, vice president, secretary and treasurer to be elected by a majority vote of all common stockholders. The heads of the different departments are to be selected by the majority vote of the common stockholders engaged therein. Any stockholder who is an operator may for incompetency, intemperance or willful neglect of duty, be retired from the company by a two-thirds majority vote of a department. But he shall have the right to appeal to the board, and if no satisfaction can be had the board shall call a meeting of all the stockholders and the matter be laid before them, and the majority shall decide his case and fix his fine, provided his fine shall not exceed $50 or the value of his common stock. Any operator who is a common stockholder may withdraw from the company by giving sixty days' notice to the head of his department and if his place can be satisfactorily filled by one who will assume payment on the stock and settle the amount due him he shall be compelled to make no sacrifice on his stock unless the company has declared the stock worth less than its paid-up value, to cover some loss, when deduction may be made for same, unless the new member assumes the same or makes it good to the company. Should a member voluntarily leave the company without an excuse, and the company is damaged by his absence, he shall be subject to fine not to exceed $100, nor more than the paid-up value of his common stock. He also risks the forfeiture of his stock. And if the company determines it forfeited it shall pay him in preferred stock the supposed value of the com-mon stock, less the fine.

Two were named "Dancing" and one each "Music" and "Singing." The originals were executed for the New York Metropolitan Opera House. Flowers and ferns were also used to ornament the room. The evening was one of entirely a social nature, and there was a very good attendance of the

TO RAISE THE QUARANTINE.

State Will Permit Muncie to Resume Traffic with the World.

At the call of the secretary the State Board of Healtn met yesterday afternoon in consultation with Governor Matthews and a committee of leading Muncie citizens. The committee came forward with the request that the State board raise the querantine on the city so far as the railroads are concerned. The gentlemen argued that there is now little danger of a further spread of the smallpox, and they desired that the board lift the quarantine in order that the interests of the city might again be promoted. They hold that business is suffering and that the town cannot longer afford to shut out traffic. Dr. Metcalf, of the board, stated that after a thorough canvass of the infected districts, he felt that the disease had abated sufficiently to grant the request of the committee. There have been no new cases for two weeks, and all patients, save one, are confined in the hospital. The board after discussing the question at length consented to raise the quarantine provided the Mayor of the city and the president of the city Board of Health attach their signatures to the petition. In case this is done the State board will have no further connection with the sanitary condition of Muncie, and will turn the matter over to the local authorities. There are to be certain restrictions placed upon the conduct of the citizens should the quarantine be raised. No children from infected districts will be permitted to attend the public schools, and all other pupils must be supplied with a certificate from the Health Board before they will be allowed to enter school. Local quarantine precautions about the hospitals will be kept up as before. It is understood that the assistance from the State is to be withdrawn with the quar-

THEIR SAD WEDDING JOURNEY.

James Shanessy, of Evansville, Arrested on a Charge of Bigamy.

James Shanessy, a young man of good address, was arrested yesterday morning by detectives Kinney and Richards on a telegram from the chief of police of Evansville, charging the prisoner with bigamy. Shanessy was found at No. 228 North Illinois street with his wife, a pretty young woman, who said she married her husband in Evansville a few days ago. She was much shocked to learn of the charge, but loyally refused to desert Shanessy and followed him to police headquarters, where he was locked up.

The prisoner's story is to the effect that he left a wife in Canada a year ago, taking with him to Evansville two small children. There he met Miss Lulu Greinstein, a young woman prominently connected. He proposed marriage to her and was accepted. but not before he was informed by his friends that his first wife had secured a divorce from him. He was married to the Evansville girl and they came here on a wedding tour. After a conversation with the prisoner Superintendent Powell concluded to hold him until the Evansville officers arrive.

The Republican city central committee met at the Mansur Block last night, pursuant to a call issued by Chairman Smith upon the request of a number of committeemen who are not satisfied with the appointments made by Mayor Denny. It was advertised by some that the meeting would enter a protest against the Mayor's appointments, but it was shown after the meeting adjourned the members of the Republican committee were not kickers. Chairman Smith called the meeting to order, and in a little speech complimented the committee on the work it had done in the late campaign, on its most excellent organization and on its harmony. He hoped that the organization would remain intact for the county campaign, when such an organization would sweep the Democratic county ring out of office. There were 118 of the committeemen present. Thomas Seery and W. H. Craft also made speeches. There was no kicking among the members. The following resolutions were adopted:

MERE SENSATIONAL FICTION.

Manager McLean Routs a Wild-Eyed Street-Car Rumor.

Manager McLean, of the Citizens' Streetrailroad Company, pronounced a sensational story printed in a morning paper yesterday as a fabrication, the like of which he had not seen in many years. The article claims that he has had detectives here "spotting" members of the Brotherhood of street-car men, and that he is bringing men here from the East to take the places of men whom he is discharging. The story was also printed that he had called on Mayor Denny and the Board of Safety, asking if they would render police assistance in case of a strike. All the gentlemen deny that any such request was ever made. Mr. White, of the Board of Safety, said yesterday that he never heard of any such request. Mr. White has been a representative of organized labor in the city for years.

"The company is not trying to break up the Brotherhood," said Mr. McLean, yesterday, "We have discharged a number of men within the last two months, but in very case we have had good cause. There has been too much agitation on the part of men who have nothing at stake, and this has kept our employes in continual dread of a strike that would keep them from earning a living. We resolved to stop this. The new men have nearly all been residents of this city. We have not brought men from other cities, as it is our policy to give employment to the men who live here. We have not been making preparations for a strike, have employed no detectives, and have not called on Mayor Denny. A great many street-car men out of employment have applied to us from other cities. The story that there is a clash between President Mason, like many other stories, is en

There is very little probability of a strike with the hard winter ahead. It is doubtful if half of the Brotherhood men would leave their cars if a strike was ordered. He Wanted to Sell Cars.

A story printed in an afternoon paper to the effect that one of Thiel's agents, of St. Louis, was at the New Denison under cover, ready to furnish the Citizens' company with laborers or detectives, had its origin in the fact that Mr. J. Brooks, of a St. Louis car manufacturing company, has been at the hotel during the last few days conferring with Manager McLean about the purchase of rolling stock for the road. Mr. Brooks is an elderly gentleman.

Mr. Dorrah's Views. To the Editor of the Indianapolis Journal: I would like to occupy a little space in your valuable paper to reply to the News and also to Mr. McLean, of the streetrailroad company. The News says: "For several days the members of the Brotherhood who have been discharged by the company have been trying to induce the employes of the company to strike." This, I think, if the facts were known, is not true, although they do insist that there ought to be some action taken whereby the discharging of men without cause could be stopped. Some of those men recently discharged are as honest and as honorable in the discharge of their duties and obligations to the car company as any man in their employ. It goes on and says Mr. Mc-Lean was much surprised to hear that there were to be wholesale discharges of members of the Brotherhood; that the places of the discharged men have been illed with men brought here from the East; that the company has prepared for a strike, etc. It is apparent that the above statements are facts from the very reason that he had enough men employed to run his ears and men to spare. Notwithstanding the great number of men which he has employed within the last few days, yet he says it is fiction from beginning to end, He says: "In every instance where men were discharged the company had good reasons for its actions. We have had in view all the time the best service possible for the people. There were conductors who stood on the rear platform of the car and talked strike and trouble from one weak's end to the next, and the interests of the public and the company were overlooked." Then he goes on to say that the man who have the interests of the company at heart, who attend to their duties as they should (this same promise he made to a committee some time past), will not be disturbed, Now, I appeal to the citizens of Indianapolis whether the above charges are true or false with reference to the conductors that were recently discharged without there being any charge against them. And now if the verdict of those citizens is for the News and Mr. McLean those conductors should bow their heads in shame. R. L. DORRAH.

"The Crust of Society." which is undorlined for the Grand Opera House the first part of next week is an adaptation of Alexander Dumas' "Le Demi Monde." It has caused much discussion wherever produced, and whatever may be the opinion as to the story it tells, it is generally acknowledged to be a most ingenious and interesting drama. The company includes such capable people as Miss Elsta Proctor Otis, Miss Zeffie Tillbury, Mr. Arthur Lewis and Miss Lydia Thompson. The original English version will be given here. A half dozen different versions have been presented in this country by various companies.

The Empire Theater will offer one of its leading attractions next week in the engagement of Bobby Manchester's Night Owls Beauty Show, commencing Monday matinee. A feature of the show is a strong olio, introducing the Zanfretta family, Dollie Howe, Car and Jardyne, La Petite Aimee, Delmore and Wilson, Thomas Nolen, and the great French wonders, La Mothe and Ducrow, who perform the giant double swing by their feet. The performance opens and closes with a lively burlesque, introducing a score of ladies. The costumes and scenery are elegant.

HE DIDN'T GET THE LETTER.

Husband's Threat to Cut His Throat Was of No Avail.

Samuel O'Haver, of No. 20 North Noble street, came near playing the crowning act of his life yesterday. His purpose was to sever his jugular vein with a razor, but the combined screams of a dozen women, with the assistance of a police officer, prevented the ghastly work. O'Haver has been married for some time to a young woman of whose affections he is not doubly sure. Yesterday evening the postman brought a letter to his home. It was for his wife, and the postmark led the husband to believe that the epistle had been indited by an old lover of Mrs. O'Haver, now in the regu-

The woman declined to allow him to look at the letter, and something in her actions during the perusal of its pages inspired him with a furious feeling of jealousy. He accused his wife of correspondence with her frontier sweetheart, and when she didn't deny it he went to his room and sharpened up his razor. With the instrument in hand he confronted his spouse, and avowed he would cut his throat if she did not hand over the objectionable letter. The woman again declined, and some of the neighbors, catching a word or two of the threats made by O'Haver, nurriedly telephoned police headquarters that an officer was wanted in that section to prevent a wife murder. Officer Alberts was detailed, and hastened to the scene. His arrival was timely and bloodshed was prevented. Haver was not arrested. He didn't get

The remains of a beautiful young girl lie in a costly casket at the undertaking rooms of Foutz & Fitzhugh, awaiting burial. There is much mystery about the facts that led to the death of the girl, and the coroner s attempting to get at something tangible. The dead woman was known as Lizzie Hall, and occupied a room at No. 481/2 Virginia evenue. Yesterday morning she was found lead in her bed, with no evidence to denote he cause of her trouble.

The coroner was called and viewed the body, but could learn nothing of the girl's liness, and decided that death was due to poison taken with suicidal intent. Other young women residing in the block say that the girl came there but recently, and was very reticent about her affairs, alhough she gave them to understand that e had not long been a resident of Inlianapolis. To one acquaintance the girl tated that her home was on Forty-second street, New York. She was an exceedngly happy disposition, and her friends cannot account for her act, unless she had grown tired of the manner in which she was living. Her room was tastefully and neatly furnished, and her wardrobe was ostly and of stylish design. The body was taken in charge by Foutz & Fitzhugh, and it the request of the dead girl's friends they prepared her for a decent burial. Unless the body should be claimed by relatives it will be buried at Crown Hill torow afternoon.

SHERMAN WELCOMED

The Senator Given an Ovation by Cincinnati Business Men.

He Delivers a Short Speech on 'Change, and Talks to Hamilton County Voters in the Evening.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 3 .- At no time during the past year has there been as many members on 'Change as assembled this afternoon to do honor to their fellow-member, Senator Sherman. As he entered the chamber one continuous cry of welcome swelled from the throats of the assembled members. He was escorted to the platform by President Ryan, who introduced him as the one man who, more than all others, had been instrumental in repealing the purchasing clause of the silver act.

Senator Sherman spoke of the recent fight in the Senate, and said that the first and most important step had been taken toward placing the United States upon a sound financial basis. He also predicted that the coming winter would be a severe one on business, involving both employer and employe, and that all must stand ready to lend a helping hand, should it be required. He said that the recent fight on the silver question had not been a political battle, as both parties were about equally divided. It was reported that he and Cleveland had slept in the same bed, but he wished to deny this. After thanking the members for the reception tendered he descended to the floor and spent some time in meeting old and new friends and fellow-members. Senator Sherman addresed a meeting of about two thousand people of all parties and ideas at Central Turner Hall to-night in the interest of Governor McKinley. He had been told, it is understood, that the Republicans of Hamilton county would "knife" McKinley in the interest of a county candidate. He made a very earnest appeal to them to be true to their standard. Senator Sherman was introduced by Chairman Leopold Markbreit, a prominent German citizen, with a few brief remarks.

The Senator devoted a good part of his speech to silver repeal, but spoke of a great many other subjects to the disparagement of the Democratis party. The Democrats, he said, are a great broken party, and are unable to formulate a single thing for the benefit of the country. He then took up the subject of pensions, and appealed to the citizens of Ohio to put the brand of ignominy upon Hoke Smith and all others who had anything to do with the suspension of pensions. He had a few words to say for the tariff. The Republican policy was to levy duties on imported goods because it was the easiest way to raise money with which to pay the expenses of the government. He had never been willing to put any higher duty on such goods than was sufficient to enable the American workmen to earn American wages and live like Americans. He compared the stagnation of the South to the progress of the North, and said we were to-day governed by just such men as we were thirty years ago.
"In the House," he said, "the Democrats have passed the bill abolishing the federal election laws, by which they have removed the only safeguard of the ballot box, but l can say to you that they will never pass that law without the hardest fight they have ever had." He said that if the Democrats of Ohio would listen to him he would beg them, in the name of patriotism, to abandon their organization and make the election of McKinley unanimous.

Major McKinley on Hoosier Soil. Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

RICHMOND, Ind., Nov. 3 .- Gov. William McKinley, of Ohio, passed through here this morning, en route from Piqua to Camden, where he speaks this afternoon. He was met at the station by Chairman Binkley, of the Republican county committee, and a large crowd of his admirers. He made a brief speech as follows:

"I am delighted to receive this greeting from the people of a neighboring State. We are accustomed to meeting people in large numbers in our own State. . Yet we supposed that, in thus stepping over the border, we would find people uninterested in our campaign. (Interruption-'Yes, and we wish we could go over there and vote for you.') I certainly should be thankful for all the votes I can fairly procure, but we think we have enough in our own State. At least we hope so. We are waging a great contest in Ohio-a contest for the workshops of Ohio and of the whole country. We are working for the condemnation of the doctrine of British free trade in America. We are working to keep our manufactures at home, to preserve American markets for American products and American labor for American laborers. (Applause.) We are working for the employment of the idle men in Ohio. Where there are idle men wages are lower. For where there are two men for each day's work the wages must be lower than when there are two days' work for one man. Free trade wishes, where there are two days' work, to give one to America and one to Europe. Protection wants to save both days' labor for America. My train must leave immediately, my friends, and I again assure you that I heartily appreclate this enthusiastic reception."

Depew at New York. Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.-The final rally of the Republican campaign took place tonight at Cooper Union. The hall was full and the platform crowded with persons prominent in local politics. The speakers of the evening were Elihu Root and Chauncey M. Depew. Col. S. V. R. Cruger presided. Among the prominent Republicans announced as vice presidents were Levi P. Morton, Cornelius N. Bliss, Wil-liam M. Evarts, Joseph H. Choate, Thomas C. Platt, Jesse Seligman, J. Pierpont Morgan and Henry Clews. Colonel Cruger, as chairman, introduced Mr Depew. The latter said, in part:

"A year ago I had the pleasure of standing on this platform in the closing days of the canvass, and to predict that if the Democracy was triumphant it would lead to reversal of the industrial policy, or at least to an industrial revolution. Every one wanted a change. The business men wanted a change, the college professor wanted a change, and every long-haired man and every short-haired woman in the country wanted a change. They got it, and now they have got enough of it.' Mr. Depew reviewed the recent financial crisis at length, and attributed it all to Democratic misrule and misgovernment. Then 'The people called for a repeal of the Sherman law and said the Democrats would repeal it. If the Republican party had remained in power we would have repealed the Sherman law, but we would have done it without the damage to the country that has been caused by the Democratic party by its delay in the matter." Mr. Depew concluded as follows: "The Republicans have brought into the Union fourteen or fifteen States, dotted them with prosperity, and the population of the country has doubled, but we have so managed that the double of population now lives better than the half did before."

The Band and Speakers Fell. BALTIMORE, Nov. 3. - The Democrats and Republicans closed their campaigns here to-night with monster mass-meetings. The Democrats showed fully 20,000 in their cessions, while the Republicans massed 5,000 at the open-air meeting at Lexington a speaking was about to begin the stand gave way, precipitating Dana and speakers to the pavement be-benefit or cure. It's because it is different that it can be sold so. All diseases originating from a torpid liver or impure blood yield to it. It cleanses and purifies the system, freeing it from all manner of blood-poisons, no matter from what cause they have arisen. psia, Dinousness, Scrotuin, Saie rheum, Tetter, Erysipelas, or any blood-taint or disorder, it is an unequaled remedy. Nothing else can take its place.

"Golden Medical Discovery" contains no alcohol to inebriate, and no syrup or sugar to derange digestion. It's a concentrated vegetable extract; put up in large bottles; pleasant to the taste, and equally good for adults or children; works equally well all the year round.
If it doesn't benefit or cure, in every case,
